Our recruitment team has access to several Multinational and indigenous companies seeking to recruit, and a rapidly expanding database of locally and regionally available candidates who have been trained at our training institute and candidates who have been registered at our manpower supply division. This means that we are able to recommend candidates to organizations seeking for candidates with certain competencies.

In tandem with our major training partners we benefit from having access to a large pool of candidates for positions on ongoing projects and companies seeking to recruit. We also support clients who operate in the Oil & Gas, Process and Petrochemical industries, Energy, Water, Waste management, and General Construction. We have specialist recruiters for all disciplines in addition to supporting Commercial, HSE and Quality Assurance departments.

OUR EXPERTISE

Engineering services

At Herock, we adopt a collaborative approach working with our clients, interested stakeholders and the development design teams to define a clear brief, which sets out the aims and objectives of the project, the programme and budget that should be site specific and realistic.

Our approach is to achieve the best balance of quality, cost, function, efficiency, maintainability and project delivery.

Strategic Design

Early and close collaboration with the design team allows an overall design strategy to be developed and refined to reflect the whole building design and to add value.

Design

We use design/coordination workshops to develop high quality design proposals for inclusion in the employer's requirements with collaborative input from designers, installers and maintainers.

Procurement

Once design decisions have been made, we then consider selecting manpower & equipment and the contractor procurement process.

Construction

We take a hands-on approach to the supervision and overseeing of the works with regular attendance at technical meetings with contractors.
